MUNICIPALITIES IN ONTARIO

As of November 15, 1961

Cities (Counties 25, Districts 5)	30
Towns (Separated from County)	8
Towns (Counties 103, Districts 47)	150
Villages (Counties 143, Districts 11)	154
Townships (Counties 428, Districts 147)	575
Improvement Districts (Counties 1, Districts 19)	20
Total Local Municipalities	937
Counties (43)*	38
Metropolitan Toronto	1
Total Incorporated Municipalities	976

The northern portion of the Province of Ontario is divided into 11 Districts and the southern portion into 43 Counties. The union of the following counties, Leeds-Grenville, Northumberland-Durham, Prescott-Russell and Stormont-Dundas and Glengarry reduces the county administrations to 38 distinct units for local government. The districts, unlike counties, are not organized for municipal purposes and as a result, the 229 incorporated municipalities contained therein are not united for municipal administration.

With the exception of the 25 cities, the 13 municipalities comprising the municipality of metropolitan Toronto and the 8 separated towns which are located within counties, the remaining 662 local municipalities in counties are united for administration in the counties of which they form part. This relationship is for the purpose of the administration of inter related interests such as education, roads, welfare and administration of justice. Members of the County Councils are composed of the reeves of all the local municipalities within the county and in certain cases the deputy reeves.

The 8 separated towns are: Brockville, Gananoque, Ingersoll, Prescott, Riverside, St. Mary's, Smiths Falls, Trenton.

POLICE VILLAGES

In addition to the organized villages listed elsewhere in the Ontario section of the Canadian Almanac, there are some 171 police villages.

A police village is run by a Board of Trustees elected by the residents. The Board of Trustees runs its local affairs, but cannot levy any taxes or make by-laws which involve the borrowing of money. It has to send in a requisition to the authorities of the township of which it is part for any finances it requires, such as for local improvements or lighting or village constabulary.

*There are 43 Counties some of which are united for purposes of local government as follows:
Leeds and Grenville,
Northumberland and Durham,
Prescott and Russell,
Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

METROPOLITAN TORONTO

The municipality of Metropolitan Toronto, by act of legislature, Bill 80 controls the following utilities in 13 autonomous, contiguous municipalities certain roads in Metropolitan Toronto, Toronto Transit Commission, Metropolitan School Board, Metropolitan Toronto Planning Board, Works Department, Police Department.

The areas affected are: City of Toronto, Township of York, Township of North York, Township of East York, Township of Scarborough, Township of Etobicoke, Village of Forest Hill, Town of Leaside, Town of Mimico, Town of New Toronto, Village of Long Branch, Town of Weston, Village of Swansea.

DATES OF MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

Municipal elections in Ontario are held at various dates provided for by The Municipal Act, Chapter 249, R.S.O. 1960, sections 43-51.

Section 43 provides that the nominations shall be held at noon on the last Monday in December except when the last Monday is Christmas day in which case nominations shall be held on the preceding Friday, and the date for polling shall be the first Monday in January; unless council under authority of section 44, not later than November 1st, passes a by-law fixing dates during the period November 15th to January 2nd both inclusive for nominations and elections, said dates to be other than a Sunday or the 24th, 25th or 31st of December and provided the day fixed for nominations is not less than seven days prior to the day fixed for polling, in force until repealed, but no appeal or amendment after 1st of November of any year.

In addition, when new municipalities are erected, the Municipal Board may set the date for the holding of their first elections

The Northwest Territories comprise all that part of Canada north of the Sixtieth Parallel of North Latitude, except the portions thereof within the Yukon Territory and the Provinces of Quebec and Newfoundland, and the islands in Hudson Bay, James Bay and Ungava Bay, except those islands within the Provinces of Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec. CANADIANS TRAVELLING ABROAD

UNITED STATES IMMIGRATION REGULATIONS

Every person desiring to enter the United States for any purpose whatever, even for a limited time, must have (1) a passport from the Government to which such person owes allegiance, or other acceptable travel document, and (2) a visa issued by an American Consular officer; excepting Canadians and British subjects having Canadian "Domicile" who may enter without passports or visas under certain conditions (for details see below).

Visas are of two kinds: (1) Immigrant visas, which are for permanent or indefinite residence in the United States, and (2) Non-immigrant visas, which are for temporary entry into the United States for definite short periods for business, pleasure, transit through, as a student, crewman, et cetera.

All persons applying for a nonimmigrant visa at United States consular offices in Canada must present a passport or other travel document valid for at least six months beyond the contemplated initial period of stay in the United States except Canadian citizens and British subjects who have "landed immigrant" status.

Border Crossing Regulations

Canadian nationals or British subjects who have their residence in Canada are not required to present passports and visas when entering the United States temporarily and a passport shall not be required of such a national or subject except after a visit outside of the Western Hemisphere. Satisfactory evidence of identity and citizenship may be required and would comprise Canadian or British passports valid or expired, "landed immigrant cards, Canadian birth or baptismal certificates, or Canadian certificates of naturalization.

Canadian citizens domiciled in Canada, entering the United States temporarily from other than the Western Hemisphere, do not require visas but must be in possession of unexpired passports.

Canadian citizens not domiciled in Canada, entering the United States temporarily, must present a valid passport.

British subjects with "landed immigrant" status in Canada entering the United States from other than the Western Hemisphere, do not require visas but must be in possession of unexpired passports.

In addition, everyone should be in possession of evidence establishing that he is in fact a bona fide temporary visitor. Letters of reference from the applicant's employer or husband's employer, or bank manager if in business for self, are the most satisfactory. Those desiring further information regarding entry requirements may call in person or write to the nearest U.S. Consulate. For American Consulates in Canada, see Index.

American citizens do not require passports to re-enter the United States from Canada but must satisfy the immigration officials at the port of entry that they are in fact United States citizens.

CANADIAN PASSPORT AND VISA INFORMATION

Passports are issued in Canada at the Passport Office, Ottawa. They are valid for five years and are renewable for one additional period of five years. Any person in possession of an old passport should submit it for inspection. Passport application forms are available at most Post Offices throughout Canada, travel agencies, banks and at the Passport Office itself.

Visas when required as detailed hereunder are obtainable from the representative in Canada of the country to be visited.

Canadians visiting the United States, Puerto Rico or the U.S. Virgin Islands for six months or less do not require a passport but proof of citizenship. Those entering the United States for the purpose of engaging in gainful employment should obtain both passport and visa.

It is recommended that Canadians entering Ceylon as visitors for a period of less than six months be in possession of a visa.

Valid passports but no visas are required by Canadians visiting the following countries for a reasonable period of time: Mexico (Tourist Card also required), Norway, Commonwealth countries and most Commonwealth territories, La Martinique, Guadeloupe and French Guiana.

Valid passports but no visas are required by Canadians visiting the following countries for a period not exceeding three months: The Netherlands, Italy, Turkey, Austria, Monaco, Argentina, France, Portugal, Switzerland, and West Germany.

Valid passports but no visas are required by Canadians visiting the following countries for a period not exceeding two months: Belgium, Greece, Luxembourg, Portugal.

Canadians travelling to other countries should communicate with the nearest representative of the country they wish to visit, for appropriate advice.

Nationals of Commonwealth countries who are not Canadians should apply for passports or renewals to the High Commissioner representing their country in Ottawa.

Canadians in British Commonwealth countries may obtain passports or renewals at the Offices of the High Commissioners for Canada in the respective countries on proof of citizenship.

Canadians in other countries may present applications re passports to the nearest Canadian representative. In cases of emergency, United Kindgom representatives will renew passports for limited periods.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT ANNUITIES

The Government Annuities System was set up in 1908 to encourage persons resident or domiciled in Canada to save for their old age by the purchase of deferred annuities and to enable older citizens to stretch out their accumulated savings by the purchase of immediate annuities. Canadian Government Annuities are payable for life and may be guaranteed for a period of years certain. Under deferred annuities, premiums are returned with interest if the annuitant dies before the annuity commences. The maximum amount of annuity obtainable is $1,200.00 a year. It may be obtained with an income reduction of $55.00 a month at 70, thus fitting in with the Old Age Security Act, in which event the maximum is the actuarial equivalent of $1,200 a year.

Individual contracts are in most instances eligible for registration as Retirement Savings Plans to get tax exemption on premiums in accordance with Section 79B of the Income Tax Act.

Employers may operate their pension plans through the purchase of Government Annuities for, or on behalf of, their employees. There are 1,226 such pension plans in operation, covering 203,940 working employees. In addition, there are 116,369 individual deferred annuity contracts in force. Annuity in the annual amount of $15,174,444 is being paid under 83,480 individual contracts and group certificates.

The premiums are moderate and annuities may be purchased through Canadian Government Annuities offices in 50 communities across Canada, or directly from Head Office.

For full particulars apply to C. R. McCord, Director of Annuities, Department of Labour, Ottawa.

The National Gallery of Canada was established under the National Gallery of Canada Act (S.C., 1912-13. Chapter 33—now the National Gallery Act, R.S.C., 1952, Chapter 186). The beginnings of the National Gallery of Canada are associated with the founding of the Royal Canadian Academy of Arts in 1880. The Marquis of Lorne, then Governor General, had recommended, and assisted the founding of the Academy. Among the three tasks he assigned to that institution, one charged them with the establishment of a National Gallery at the seat of government. The Marquis also selected a group of pictures which formed the nucleus of the permanent collection. Until 1907, the National Gallery was directly under the control of a Minister of the Crown. In that year, the government appointed an Advisory Arts Council of laymen to administer grants to the National Gallery. In 1910, the first professional curator was appointed. In 1913, when the National Gallery was incorporated by Act of Parliament, responsibility for administration was vested in a Board of Trustees appointed by the Governor in Council. The function of the Board is to administer and manage the Gallery, to develop and conserve the national art collections, to encourage public interest in the arts and to promote the interests of art throughout the country. Today, the Board of Trustees is composed of nine members representing all sections of Canada. In 1951, responsibility for the Gallery was transferred from the Minister of Public Works to the Minister of Citizenship and Immigration. In 1957, the development of a Conservation and Scientific Research Division, as applied to works of art, was begun. The National Gallery of Canada carries out an extensive programme. Exhibitions of art collections from abroad, from its own holdings, and from private and public sources are organized and circulated in Canada and abroad. Educational services are offered to the general public across Canada. Among these are included films, publications and reproductions of works of art. Lecture tours are also organized. A tour program of the National Gallery collections is available to visitors to, and residents of, Ottawa.

The National Museum of Canada, Ottawa

The National Museum of Canada originated in the Geological Survey of Canada which was founded in 1842 by Sir William Logan. Formerly the Victoria Memorial Museum, authority to designate it as the "National Museum of Canada", was given by Order-in-Council P.C. 2615 of January, 1927.

In 1957 the Museum was divided into two branches —the Natural History Branch which carries out scientific research and is responsible for exhibits in the field of natural history, and the Human History Branch which has the same responsibilities in the field of human history.

NATURAL HISTORY BRANCH

The Natural History Branch deals with the sciences of Botany, Zoology, Palaeontology, and Geology. Its study collections are open to research by properly qualified students. They include over 266,000 sheets of vascular plants besides 96,000 cryptograms, 22,800 mammals, 48,000 birds, 22,500 specimens of amphibians and reptiles, smaller collections of fishes, and numerous marine invertebrates. There is an outstanding collection of dinosaurs and other fossil vertebrates. Scientific and educational publications on this material are available for distribution.

ART AND ARCHAEOLOGY DIVISION

Head, A. D. Tushingham, B.A.,B.D.,Ph.D.,F.S.A., Curator, Far Eastern Department, Henry Trubner, M.A.; Department of Ethnology, K. E. Kidd, M.A.; Greek and Roman Department, Professor J. W. Graham, M.A., Ph.D.; European Department, Professor G. Brett, M.C., M.A.; Near Eastern Department, Miss W. Needler, B.A.; Textile Department, Mrs. G. Brett; Canadiana Collections, F. St. G. Spendlove; Registrar, Miss D. Hecken, Ph.D.; Chief Conservator, W. Todd; Display Chief, Harley Parker; Chief Cabinetmaker, A. Barker; Chief Preparator, I. Lindsay.

The large collections of this division housed in 78 galleries, illustrate man's life, skills and arts through many centuries and in many lands—from the stone ages through the historical periods. The Near Eastern galleries document his earliest attempts to achieve an ordered, sedentary existence particularly in Egypt, Mesopotamia and neighbouring lands. Objects from Crete, Cyprus, Greece and Italy demonstrate the important pre-classical and classical heritage. The fine collection of Greek vases is particularly significant. The cultural history of Europe through the mediaeval and into the modern period is set forth in arms and armour, sculpture, ceramics, silver and glass, furniture, textiles, and costumes. Canada's cultural past is illustrated by textiles, furniture and wood carving in the main building and by paintings, prints and memorabilia in the Sigmund Samuel Canadiana Collection. The Far Eastern collection is of great importance with stress laid on Chinese bronzes, ceramics, jades, lacquers and tomb groups. The Ethnological collection is very large, illustrating the cultures of the American aborigines in North, Central and South America but containing important materials from all over the world.

Continually changing Special Exhibitions utilize both loan materials and objects from the Division's own collections to focus public attention on particular aspects of man's culture.

EARTH SCIENCES DIVISION

Head of the Division and Curator of Mineralogy, V. B. Meen, M.A., Ph.D.; Associate Curator of Mineralogy, Joseph A. Mandarino, M.A., Ph.D.; Curator of Geology, Walter M. Tovell, B.A., M.S., Ph.D.; Chief of Design and Display, J. Hillen.

This division occupies three galleries.

The mineralogy gallery contains an unusually complete series of minerals from all parts of the world, as well as a special collection of Canadian minerals; collections of cut gems, crystals, meteorites, rocks; and a special series to illustrate the mineral association found in deposits of gold, silver, lead, zinc, uranium and nickel, as well as certain non-metallic series. Among the popular exhibits are a reconstructed crystal cave and a collection to show the fluorescence of minerals.

A gallery of physical geology was opened in 1957. It contains exhibits devoted to geological processes such as glaciation and rock formation, and it also has the six-foot diameter Bickell Globe that divides to show the earth's interior. A new gallery devoted to mineral deposits and the Canadian Shield will be opened in 1962.

LIFE SCIENCES DIVISION

Head—W. E. Swinton, Ph.D., F.R.S.E., F.M.A.; Birds—Curator, L. L. Snyder, F.A.O.U.; Assistant Curator, J. L. Baillie; Mammals—Curator, R. L. Peterson, M.Sc., Ph.D.; Assistant Curator, S. C. Lemon, M.A., Ph.D.; Art and Exhibits—Chief Artist, T. M. Shortt.

The gallery of Canadian animals features a reasonably complete collection of well-displayed mammals and birds. Numerous habitat groups and special displays explain life histories and other features of interest. Opened in 1960 is a gallery which shows the life habits and adaptations of reptiles from all areas of the world, as well as a comprehensive display of the amphibians and reptiles of Canada. The recently-built gallery of fishes has a colourful systematic series, plus several excellent habitat groups and models of commercial fishing equipment. Displays in the gallery of foreign animals include representatives of most groups of mammals, birds and insects. The three galleries in the palaeontology section contain many rare and unique specimens. The systematic collection of invertebrates, is currently under re-construction. The dinosaur gallery features many complete skeletons and type specimens from the Cretaceons of Western Canada. A recent addition to the gallery of fossil mammals and fishes is an exhibit of bones recovered from the tar pits of Peru by a museum expedition.

The scope and authenticity of the gallery displays is made possible by the continuous study of the vast library and research collections maintained in the departmeutal laboratories. The collections are also used by scholars the world over, being especially rich in birds, mammals, spiders, aquatic insects, Cretaceous dinosaurs and lower Paleozoic invertebrates.

THE SYNAGOGUE IN CANADA

There is no federation of synagogues in Canada. Each synagogue is autonomous, is responsible to no superiors, affiliated with no hierachy. Any group of Jews may form a synagogue, which does not necessarily require the services of a rabbi, any individual being eligible to lead in the recital of prayers.

There are three tendencies evident in Judaism—orthodox, conservative and reform. The orthodox tendency parallels the fundamentalist movement in Christianity; the reform tendency is modernism in Judaism; the conservative tendency is the middle movement.

Several synagogues in Canada are affiliated with the Union of American Hebrew Congregations, the federation of reform synagogues. Several other Canadian synagogues are affiliated with the United Synagogue of America (conservative). Most of the Canadian congregations are orthodox and are not affiliated with any parent organization, which in any case has no authority over its constituent members.

The Institute is a private organization supported by some Government grants and public subscriptions. Its Employment Department trains and places blind men and women in general business and industrial positions. It operates sheltered shops to afford employment for blind men and women who, because of age, physical handicaps, or personal prefcrences cannot work in regular industry. It controls tobacco stands, news stands and industrial cafeterias, managed by the sightless. It gives instruction in Braille reading and writing, typewriting and handicrafts. It supplies raw materials at cost and provides facilities for the sale of articles made by home-workers. It maintains libraries of Braille and Talking Books. Every division has a social service department, and in some of the larger cities (22) there are residences and rehabilitation centres for the blind. The Institute is also active in preventing blindness wherever possible. C.N.I B. maintains a year-round recreation program as a means of adjustment and development for the blind.

WINSLOW HOMER—
AMERICAN ARTIST
His World and His Work

BY ALBERT TEN EYCK GARDNER Associate Curator of American Art, The Metropolitan Museum of Art

Introduction by James J. Rorimer, Director, The Metropolitan Museum of Art

For over ninety years Winslow Homer has been to many, the greatest artist the United States has ever produced. His oils and water colours have had a constant and enormous popular appeal, and his critical reputation has never suffered a serious decline. This book is a biography of his life, a view of his friends and his times, a penetrating new interpretation of how his genius developed and matured and the biggest collection of his pictures ever to be reproduced in one volume. No effort has been spared to make this book as handsome, fully illustrated, and well printed as an art book can be. The thirty-six full colour plates of his masterpieces are all newly made, and the over 190 black and white illustrations trace his development through his whole career.

The text, written by an outstanding authority on American art, traces the emergence of his individual style, and offers an explanation of the importance and meaning of Homer's trip to Paris, a period that has long been regarded as a curious blank in his life, but which Mr. Gardner feels is actually a profound turning point. In pictures and text, we see how Homer's genius flowered, and why this shy Yankee "was, and in some mysterious way remains, a perennially vital modern artist." Over 230 illustrations, 36 in full colour.

"The containers, labels, stickers or wrappers, described on this entry are imported bona fide by the undersigned to contain or to be attached to goods for export, and will be exported with such goods."

Imported containers, labels or wrappers, printed or lithographed, intended to be filled with or used upon domestic products may be marked in such a manner as to indicate the origin of the goods in their condition as imported, for example: "Label printed by John Jones, New York," thereby avoiding an improper imputation of origin in respect of the Canadian manufactured goods with which such imported containers, labels or wrappers are used.

CUSTOMS PROCEDURE, ETC.

EXPORTING TO THE UNITED STATES

The customs laws of the United States, governing the importation of goods, very materially differ from ours. They have no such thing as the manifesting system such as we have, and all merchandise is supposed to be entered at the first port of arrival. However, they have ports termed I.T. Ports (immediate transport ports) to which goods may be forwarded in bond, without appraisement at the frontier port. In this case the goods must be carefully marked "Forwarded in Bond."

Merchandise, in order to be entered under Immediate Transportation, without appraisement at the frontier, must be destined to a designated immediate transportation port, and must be billed via a port at which merchandise may be entered for transportation to another port without appraisement.

These ports through which goods must be billed and to which they must be consigned may be learned from the transportation company as the lists are too extensive to be given space here.

If goods are destined for a foreign country they are entirely under Transportation and Exportation entry in bond, in transit, for exportation from the seaboard port.

EXPORTING TO OTHER COUNTRIES

Exporters requiring information regarding invoice forms and Customs Regulations of other countries, applying to goods exported from Canada, should write to Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa.

GIFTS TO THOSE ON ACTIVE SERVICE

To be exported as gifts, addressed to members of the armed forces of the British Empire or their Allies, do not require a permit to export.

GOODS TO BE RETURNED TO THE U.S.

Merchants finding it necessary to return goods not according to order and wishing to obtain refund of duty will be required to make out four different forms to accompany the way bill when goods are shipped back. If shipment is over $100.00 the forms are as follow:

1. "Foreign Owner's Oath" or "Oath of American Manufacture."
2. American Consular Certificate.
3. Export papers in triplicate.
4. One certified copy of Customs Incoming Manifest.

Where shipment is under $100.00 the American Consular Certificate and Incoming Manifest are not required

The intending consignee must send to the U.S. shipper for an affidavit on a prescribed form, mentioned above as the Oath of American Manufacture, declaring the goods to be of United States origin or manufacture, in order that the goods when returned may pass the U.S. Customs without duty.

When this affidavit is received it must be attached to the way bill by the transportation agent here and forwarded along with the goods. This will enable the United States Customs Officer at the frontier to recognize the goods as home manufacture and have them forwarded on to destination without duty. The original U.S. shipper may secure these forms at his Customs, but a better way is for the intending consignee to secure a copy from the local express agent here and forward same to the U.S. firm with all necessary explanation as to line of procedure and thus avoid possible delay.

The American Consular Certificate forms must be obtained from the nearest American Consul, who will send blank forms in triplicate. These must be filled in as required and returned to the American Consul with his fee, when he will return one copy to the intending consignee, who will attach same to way bill with other documents mentioned.

Export entry, procurable from Customs Department, must be made out by consignee in triplicate and attached to way bill together with the Foreign Owner's Oath, Consular Certificate and Incoming Manifest. One copy will remain on file at the port of exit, the second copy goes to the Customs Department and the third copy will be returned by the Customs officer at the Canadian port of exit to the merchant who returned the goods. He will then attach it to the refund of duty claim along with a copy of the way bill as a guarantee that the goods have been returned

Goods must be in Customs custody within 12 months of date of importation.

CURRENCY CERTIFICATE OF INVOICE

Importers should, when ordering goods from Britain or any foreign country, instruct the exporter or salesman to always give the value of the goods in the home consumption column of the invoice and to show the same in the currency of the country of export.

Internal taxes should be definitely stated.

The exporter should also be very carefully instructed to place on the invoice the currency certificate.

GOODS SHORT LANDED

In the case of goods duty paid and short received, delivery of same upon subsequent arrival can be obtained, without payment of duty anew, only when the following regulations are observed:—

(a) Notice of the short receipt of goods must be given to the collector in writing within thirty days of entry.

(b) If the goods have been omitted from the shipment, a declaration to that effect must be produced from the exporter.

(c) If a portion of the consignment has been delayed in transit by the carriers, a declaration to this effect will be required from the latter.

(d) No portion of a consignment of goods, duty-paid, in respect of which a short shipment occurs, is to be disposed of by the importer until the appraiser has had an opportunity of checking over the goods.

SETTLERS' EFFECTS ENTRY

Settlers' effects are admitted duty free, if actually owned abroad by the settler for at least six months before his removal to Canada, and subject to regulations prescribed by the Minister.

Provided that any dutiable article entered as settlers' effects may not be so entered unless brought by the settler on his first arrival, and shall not be sold or otherwise disposed of without payment of duty until after twelve months' actual use in Canada.
